OUR HISTORY

Addis has a long and established heritage which began in 1780 with the invention of the Toothbrush by founder William Addis.

Addis remained pioneers in Manufacturing over the following years and with the introduction of new Injection moldings technology became the one of the first companies to utilise this in the Manufacturing of its products.

With this new Injection moldings manufacturing, Addis were able to utilise this to move into the housewares sector producing plastics for various uses around the home which is where the company mainly operates today.
